

Dear Friends,

On behalf of organising committee, I am pleased to invite you to take part in the Baltic Rheumatology Conference on 14th May 2021, which will be organised online.

The conference is entitled 'The challenges in rheumatology in COVID-19 pandemics'. It will cover all areas of rheumatology and discuss the challenges we all face during this difficult period. Many renowned speakers and leaders from the Baltic region will attend to give the clinical updates and share their practical experience. The preliminary programme is available at conference web page www.balticrheumatology.com.

We are all facing new challenges because of the global pandemic. However, we have to move on and adapt to the new "normality" and grow wiser and stronger. Therefore, we are preparing a separate conference section dedicated to Covid-19 and its' caused hard tasks that we face every day now.

We kindly invite all rheumatology specialists to register for Baltic Rheumatology Conference and have an insight into newest researches of most actual topics, look at processes in our daily work from a different perspective and develop our professional growth.

We are looking forward to meet you online!

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Daina Andersone

Chairman of the board of the Latvia Adults Society of Rheumatology

Head of the center of Rheumatology, Pauls Stradins Clinical University hospital, Riga, Latvia
